AIMS

The project aims is to promote volunteering. It is also about self-development and self-awareness of young people about their skills and competences. The essence of it is to make young people aware that they need to develop. During the exchange participants will be able to train their abilities in practice. During workshop and field games they will be able to know themselves. Also experience in meeting with volunteers will open up new opportunities for them. All workshops and meetings will be conducted through non-formal education, with the active participation of all participants.

ABOUT FEIS

The Foundation of European Initiatives in Silesia (FEIS) deals mainly with supporting young people in the areas of volunteering, civil society building and non-formal education. The mission of the FEIS Foundation is to broaden the horizons of young people and supplement their education in areas that are neglected by the traditional education system.
